Improving Your Lawn – Fall Aeration/Seeding

Everyone loves a nice thick green lawn. Fall is the perfect time to start improving your lawn with our landscape services. Whether you are starting a new lawn or wanting to improve an existing lawn, we can help. We offer aeration/seeding and sod installation to improve your turf.

Fescue is a cool-season grass that is very commonly planted in our area. It is well adapted to sunny or partially shady areas. When densely sown, a pure stand forms a moderate to coarse-textured lawn that is uniform in appearance with good weed and disease resistance. Fescue tolerates warm summer temperatures and stays green during cool, but not severe winter conditions.

Lawns thin out for several reasons. Drought, summer disease, insects, and high traffic can all weaken and thin out turf. After the turf is gone, weeds move in. Does the turf lack nutrients? Does it need better drainage? Our expert representatives can evaluate your lawn and help to restore it for the beautiful lush lawn you want.

Shade is a problem that many of our customers face. The lawn may have done well for years, but then you notice the grass is thinning and weeds are invading. The problem is the trees have grown enough to shade your turf. An option is to cut the trees or raise the canopies to allow light to penetrate.

It's Storm Season!

Although we have not had a severe hurricane in our area for several years we are still subject to frequent storms and lightning. In surveys taken, it has been documented that oak trees are the number one lightning struck tree, followed closely by maple, ash, spruce, elm and fir. When lightning strikes a tree the damage may appear to be slight or pretty unnoticeable, or may look like a bomb exploded from within the tree.
